WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A weak front will move across the region tonight bringing light periods of light rain through early Sunday morning. Light showers will taper off by Sunday afternoon as a ridge starts to build offshore. This ridge will build over Northern California next week bringing warmer and drier weather.

San Francisco Weather:

This morning a weak weather system may produce scattered light showers across the forecast area. Rain amounts are expected to be very light. A warming and drying trend will get underway on Monday as high pressure begins to build along the West Coast. Temperatures will warm well above normal by Tuesday and Wednesday as light offshore flow develops. Cooling is expected late in the week as high pressure breaks down and onshore flow returns.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

Sacramento Weather:

A weak weather system will move through today bringing some light rain to the region but will otherwise have little impact to the area. Significant warming is expected this week as temperatures warm 10 to 15 degrees above normal by the middle of the week in response to strong high pressure building over the forecast area.

Hanford Weather:

Gusty winds continue over the Kern County Mountains and Desert in the wake of a departing frontal system. For the next several days, high pressure will begin to move in producing clearing skies and warming temperatures.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

After one more relatively cool and breezy day today, building high pressure and offshore flow will bring significant warming to the region both Monday and Tuesday, with well above normal to near record high temperatures Wednesday and Thursday. There will be some gusty offshore winds at times Monday night through Thursday. Some cooling is expected on Friday and Saturday as high pressure aloft weakens.

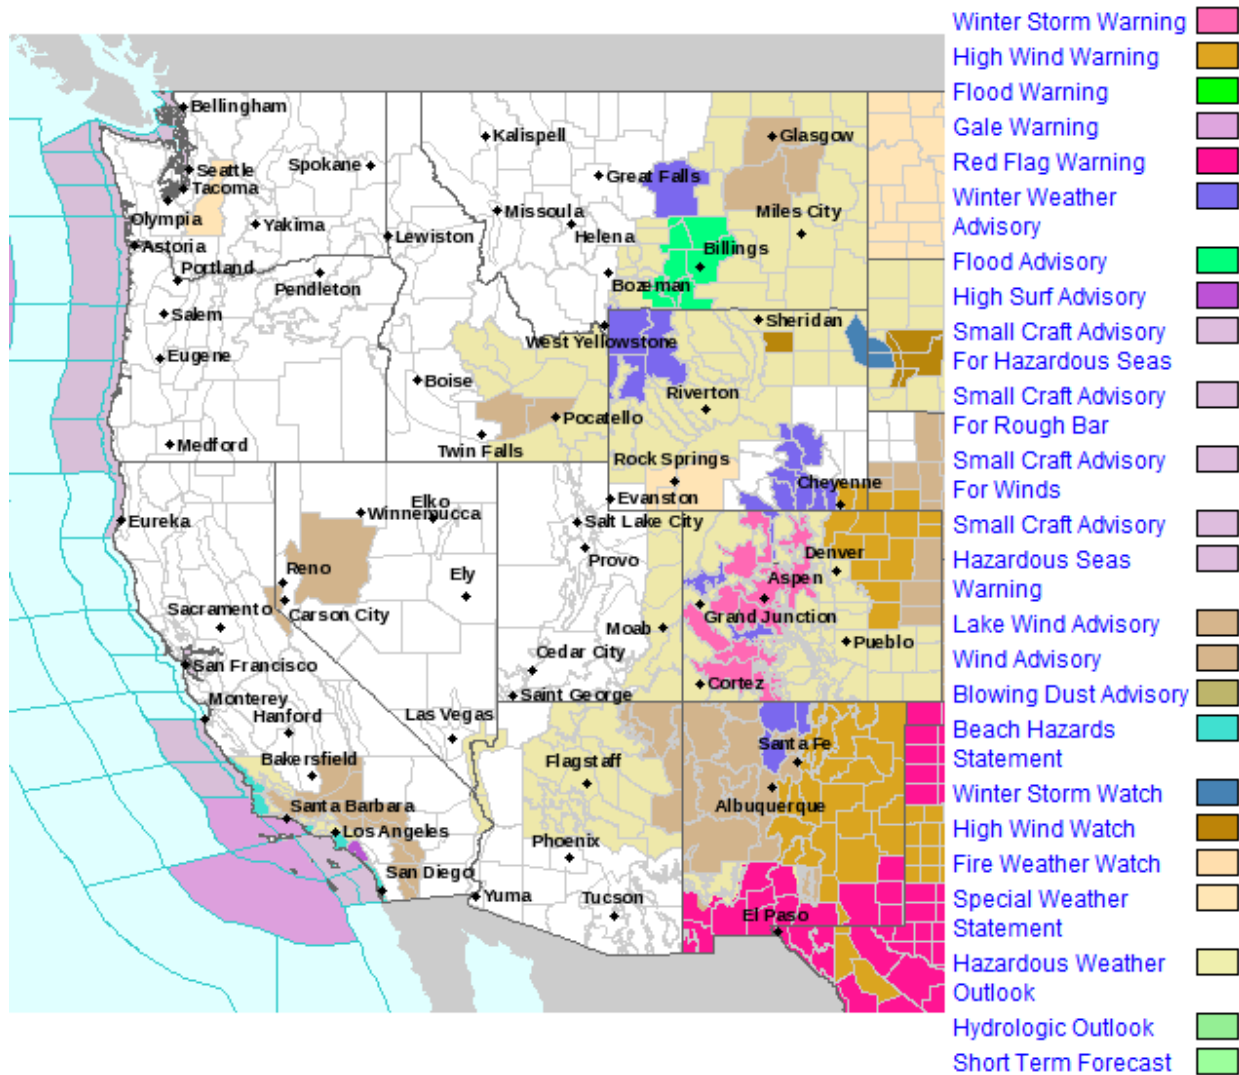

Extreme Southwestern California Including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Temperatures will be gradually warmer through Monday. For Tuesday through Friday, high pressure aloft near the West Coast and offshore flow will bring much warmer temperatures with periods of strong gusty northeast winds near the coastal foothills and below passes and canyons for Tuesday and Wednesday, with weakening winds for Thursday and Friday. Weak onshore flow may return for next weekend with gradual cooling spreading inland from the coast.

Southeast California Weather:

Dry weather with a warming trend is expected the next several days. However, gusty north winds are forecast to develop along the Colorado River Valley and parts of Southeast California Tuesday and Wednesday. Afternoon temperatures later in the week should warm into the mid to upper 90s in the deserts.

CAL OES ACTIVATIONS

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- The SOC is activated at Level 2 in support of the Drought State of Emergency from 0800-1700 hours daily.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 2 from 0800-1700 Monday through Friday or as needed.
- The Southern REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is 0800-1700 hours.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

This week brings cooler and wetter weather across the state, although precipitation will likely be limited.

*As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

Situational Summary (cont'd)

Information as of 4/21/14

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- The most recent snowpack survey, conducted on April 1, recorded California snowpack at 32% of normal. A more recent update using automated devices shows snowpack at 19% of normal as of April 20.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project in spite of the zero allocation policy. Deliveries will be boosted if storms produce enough rain and snow to increase reservoir storage and the snow pack.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.

Current Drought Updates:

- 2014 Drought Response Report will be updated again on 04/28/14.
